The northern lights are ongoing and are visible briefly even in the months of May and August (though because it never gets properly dark in Iceland in the summer, that would be the wrong time to go looking). September through March is the peak season for northern lights viewing because the nights are longest. Nov 21, 2019

ICELAND
ROAD TRIP GUIDE - EPISODE II
Due to the nature of the earth's magnetic field, the auroras only appear at the poles, usually above the 60° latitude mark in the north, and below the 60° latitude in the south (these 'Southern Lights' are called the aurora australis). Iceland, which sits at the latitude of approximately 64° north, is therefore ideally located to spot them.
Before science could explain what these dancing lights were, there were many theories, throughout many different cultures. The old Norse, for example, theorised that they could be the glinting of the armour of the Valkyries, the legendary female figures who chose who would live and die in battle and took the dead to the afterlife.

ummer vacations should be a time to relax and recharge your batteries. It's also a time to socialize more, travel more, an ly to exotic destinations.

or those who are traveling long distances (especially to another country) during the summer, there are a few precautions ou need to take to ensure that you protect your money. If you set these in place, you can relax a bit more and, hopefully, ave more fun on your trip.

Tell Bank and Credit Card Companies About Your Travel Plans

f you don't tell your bank or credit card company that you're planning on traveling, they may think all those purchases ou've made are faulty. Unfortunately, that means that you may lose access to your credit or debit card.

t only takes a few minutes to call these places and let them know about your plans. Doing so is even more important for hose planning on traveling overseas. When you call, let them know the places you plan on visiting and how long your trip vill last.

Just had an amazing win this morning - I was on a call with a potential client, and they were impressed by my SEO knowledge - pretty sure it helped me close the deal for a first article. I even taught them a new trick - answering the 'People also ask' questions in their headlines. It's amazing to already be seeing results of this course!
